

Electronic Gateways to Prevention Information: Working Quick and Working Smart!

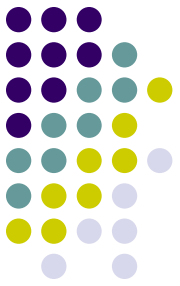

Barbie Keiser and Sandi Slappey,
National Clearinghouse on Child
Abuse & Neglect Information
14th National Conference on Child
Abuse & Neglect, April 2, 2003

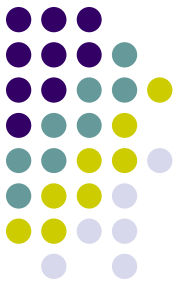

Today's Objectives

- Determine what information concerning prevention is needed
- Understand what information is available
- Offer strategies for locating “the best”

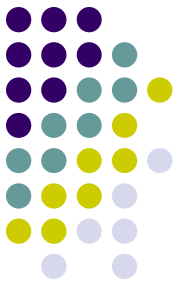

Cultivating Information Expertise

- Developing and implementing a system
 - An organized, logical approach
 - Environmental scanning + monitoring
- Keeping up with it all
 - Identifying “new” resources
 - Changes to known resources
 - Stream of information
- Accessing unique sources
 - Significant trends
 - Direct impact
 - Value added

The Payoff

- Delivery of more timely, more accurate, more focused information to those who can make the best use of it
- Better decision-making capabilities
- Reduced information source redundancy and minimal duplication of effort

How the Internet Helps

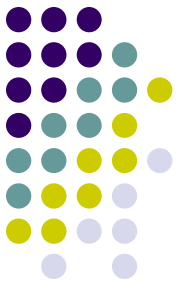

- Access to information
 - Information overload
- Timeliness of data
- Economics
 - “On the web” vs. “Via the web”
 - The invisible web
 - Free vs. Fee-based services: options & trade-offs
 - Customization & personalization

Accessing Those Important Sites

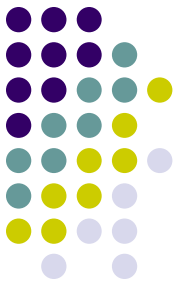

- WWW search engines
 - Indexed search services
 - Subject directories
 - Meta-search engines
 - Region & country-specific
(<http://www.arnoldit.com/lists/intlsearch.asp>)
- Portals & vortals
 - Linking sites
- Web channels & subject-specific servers

Social Science Malls & Gateways

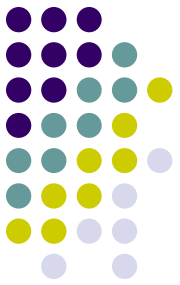

- Resource Discovery Network (<http://rdn.ac.uk>)
 - RDN virtual training site (<http://www.vts.rdn.ac.uk>)
 - Social workers
(<http://www.vts.rdn.ac.uk/tutorial/social-worker>)
- InfoNet (<http://www.socservices.com/>)
- Social Science Information Gateway (<http://www.sosig.ac.uk>)
 - Social welfare
(http://www.sosig.ac.uk/social_welfare)
 - Children (<http://www.sosig.ac.uk/roads/subject-listing/World-cat/child.html>)

Searching Online: Search Engines

- AltaVista

Caveats

- Size isn't everything
- The freshness test
- Handling frames
- Dynamically-generated page search capability
- Relevancy & links

Why Use (and What to Look for In) a Meta-search Engine?

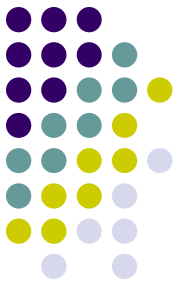

- Address unknown
- Ability to enter search string only once
- Speed
- De-duping of results
- Simple and advanced search capabilities
- Number of matches reported from each search engine
- Integration
- Ranking
- Interesting design
- Good response time
- Wide choice of search engines used
- “More like this” feature

Metasearchers

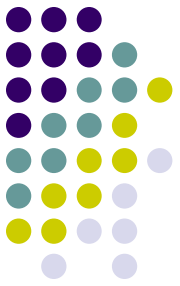

- proFusion

Taking a Journalistic Approach

- Who...
- What...
- Why...
- When...
- Where...
- How...
- How much?

Who Is Likely to Be Looking for Information Concerning Prevention?

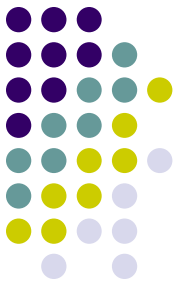

Who Is Likely to Be Looking for Information Concerning Prevention?

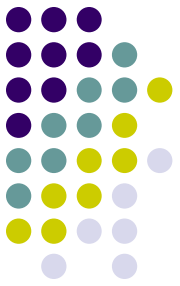

- Community-based institutions
 - Family Support Center staff
 - Nurse Home Visitors
 - Teachers
 - Day care providers
 - Medical professionals
 - Mental health
 - Substance abuse
 - CPS in-home service staff
 - Other local family and child service agency staff
 - Law enforcement community
- Advocacy groups
- Researchers
- Journalists
- Students
 - Graduate-level
 - Undergraduate
 - High school
 - Primary grades

What Are They Likely to Need to Know?

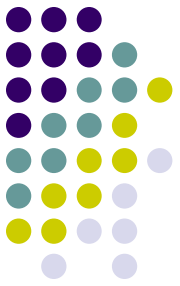

What Are They Likely to Need to Know?

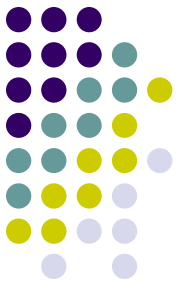

- “Best practices”
- Evaluation assistance
- Sources of funding
- Program models/designs
- Training curricula/guidance
- Statistics
- “Who is doing what”

Why Do They Need This Type of Information?

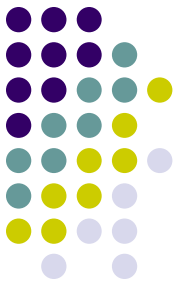

Why Do They Need This Type of Information?

- Respond to a growing concern/crisis in your community
- Learn more about the problem (and potential “solutions” or options for addressing the issue)
- Find out what’s happening in the field
- Help design a new program/enhance an existing program
- Evaluate a program
- Fund a new program
 - Re-evaluate allocation of funding

When Should You Be Collecting Information Concerning Prevention?

- Crisis response
- Stream of information
- 80/20 rule

Why Prevention Is Important

- Benefits of stopping child abuse (and neglect) BEFORE it happens
- Consequences if we don't
 - Child
 - Family
 - Community-at-large
- Cost

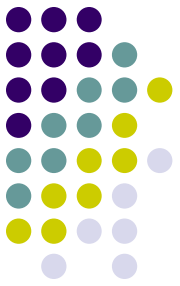

Levels of Prevention

- Primary or Universal prevention strengthens communities and families
- Secondary or Selective prevention targets those “at-risk”
- Tertiary or Indicated prevention forestalls additional maltreatment

Design Services Targeting Risk Factors

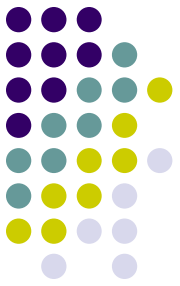

- Primary or Universal Prevention Activities
 - Prevent risk factors from developing in the first place
- Secondary or Selective Prevention Activities
 - Address risk factors present
- Tertiary or Indicated Prevention Activities
 - Conduct risk assessments to determine the level of risk for re-abuse or neglect

Prevention Program Models

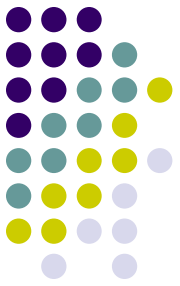

- Public Awareness Activities
- Skills-Based Curricula for Children
- Parent Programs
- Home Visitation Programs
- Other

How Do We Know If a Prevention Program Works?

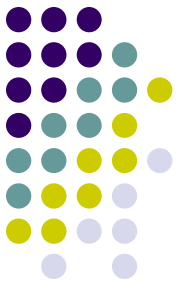

- Measurement
- Outcomes
- Evaluation designs

Where Can You Go to Find This Information?

- International agencies & NGOs
- Government sources: National, state, & local
- Associations & not-for-profit organizations concerned with child abuse
 - National advocacy organizations
 - Local community groups
- Universities, research centers, & think tanks
 - Identification
 - Collections
- Libraries and other collections
 - Public
 - Academic
 - Virtual

How Can We Get the Information We Need When We Need It?: Push Vs. Pull

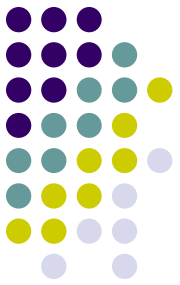

- Traditional information sources (print & electronic)
 - Books/e-books
 - Journals/e-journals
 - Alert services (direct mail & e-mail)
- Database vendors & content aggregators
- Personalized news sources/alerting services
- Field-specific sites and searches
- Go direct (single sites)
- Virtual everything
 - About.com/parenting

Quality Criteria

- Criteria for resources and research
 - Delivery services
 - Archived data
 - Sophisticated search capabilities
- Tips for comparing data
 - The more detailed the publication, the greater the time lag
 - The more accurate the statistics, the greater the time lag
 - Appreciate how the Internet changes the equation

Web Site Evaluation Criteria

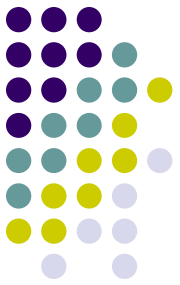

- Source credibility
 - Organizations and individual authors
 - Pay attention to extensions
 - Who links to them? To which sites do they link?
 - Advocacy in check
- Purpose
 - Target audience
 - Objectivity
 - Relevance to your work/inquiry
- Coverage and scope
 - Integration
- Date of creation
 - Frequency (and timeliness) of updates
- Quality
 - Reliability
 - Validity
 - Accuracy/Error rate
 - Meaning over time
 - Completeness & Consistency
 - Aesthetics
 - Accessibility/Ease of use
- Output options
- Documentation
- Customer support
- Value-to-cost ratio
- Privacy
