

TRIBAL HOME VISITING

IN ACTION

2020 - 2023

The Tribal Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting (TMIECHV) Program supports the development of healthy American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) children and families through coordinated, culturally relevant, and evidence-based home-visiting strategies.

From 2020 to 2023, twenty-three Tribal MIECHV Program grantees expanded home-visiting services in urban and rural tribal communities

TMIECHV grantees provide evidence-based home visiting programs at recommended levels of intensity

Recommended home visits received by families enrolled in the home visiting program

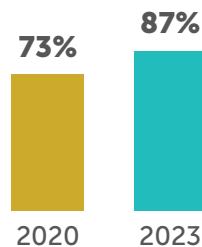

TMIECHV grantees provide evidence-based home visiting programs that reflect important policy goals and achieve meaningful results. After four years of implementation, TMIECHV grantees demonstrated improvement across seventeen different performance measures. These include:

Substance Abuse Screening

Percent of primary caregivers enrolled in home visiting who are screened for substance abuse using a validated tool within 3 months of enrollment and at least annually thereafter.

Child Injury Prevention

Percentage of primary caregivers enrolled in home visiting who are provided with training on prevention of infant and child injuries during the reporting period.

Intimate Partner Violence Screening

Percentage of primary caregivers enrolled in HV who are screened for intimate partner violence using a validated tool within 6 months of enrollment and at least annually thereafter.

The success of the TMIECHV program supported an increase in funds allocated to tribal populations, from 3% to 6%, in order to reach more families in AI/AN communities. This boost in funding will have a significant impact on grant recipients and TMIECHV is excited to witness the excellent work our Tribal partners will undertake in the future to support healthier outcomes for Native children and families.

VISITING

The Tribal Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting (TMIECHV) program provides grants to tribal organizations to develop, implement, and evaluate home visiting programs in American Indian and Alaska Native communities. The Tribal Home Visiting Program is funded by a three percent set-aside from the larger MIECHV program. Tribal Home Visiting grants are awarded to Indian tribes, consortia of tribes, tribal organizations, and urban Indian organizations.
