

Descriptive Study of Tribal Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) Programs, 2011-2013

Overview

This project will provide a descriptive study on the implementation of Tribal TANF programs and document lessons learned. The study will also document, identify and recommend potential approaches for further study.

Data collection will consist of both administrative data and implementation data garnered from site visits involving interviews with program officials and focus groups of program participants. The Urban Institute will conduct the study.

The point of contact is Girley Wright.